

Dear Neophitos,

My name is Emily Christofi and I'm a student in Paralimni Gymnasium. Since 2013, I have been participating in a Comenius project with the title "Roots and Wings". Part of my work is to research about your city, Madrid.

I was so impressed to read that Madrid is the third largest city of European Union following London and Berlin with a population of 3.3 million.

Madrid is built at an altitude of 667 above sea level on the river Manzanares in the center of the country and occupies an area of 604,3 km.

The climate is continental and shows significant changes.

Madrid consists of 21 municipalities with several smaller neighborhoods.

Madrid is considered the major financial center of Southern Europe and of the Iberian Peninsula, and is the home to the headquarters of the majority of the biggest and strongest Spanish companies.

I also wanted to ask, is Madrid the capital city of Spain?

The Estadio Santiago Bernabéu is the stadium of the Madrid team Real Madrid. This is a Spanish sports club based in Madrid and founded as a football club in 1902.

I also read that the number of immigrants in your city, Madrid, is around 854.232.

Are all the above facts real?

Best regards
Emily Christophi
