

Dear Andri,

My name is Constantinos Tsiolakkis and I am a student in Paralimni Gymnasium. Since 2013, I have been participating in a Comenius project with the title "Roots and Wings". Part of my work is to research about your city, Rome.

During my research I found that Rome is the fourth most popular European city with a population of 2.9 million residents. Rome also receives 7 to 10 million tourists every year.

Additionally, I learned that in Rome you have one of the oldest and biggest amphitheatres, the Colosseum. It can hold up to 80,000 spectators and it was build between 70BC- 80 AC.

My research lead me to the famous Fontana di Trevi, which is a fountain where people throw coins and make wishes. I read that an estimated of 3,000 Euros are thrown in the fountain every day.

I read that in Rome is the Vatican City which is the smallest internationally recognized independent state.

Furthermore, I learned that Rome is a nationwide centre of higher education. with 150 world's best universities such as Sapienza University of Rome.

However, I would like to know whether all this information is true.

Best Regards

Constantinos Tsiolakkis
